A metallic, cylindrical object, possibly a spent shell casing or a small metal container, lying on the ground. It is approximately 1.5 inches long and has a diameter of about 0.5 inches. The object is oriented diagonally, with its top edge towards the upper right.

A white ruler with black markings, used for scale. The ruler is marked in inches (top edge) and centimeters (bottom edge). The inch scale ranges from 0 to 6 inches, and the centimeter scale ranges from 0 to 15 centimeters. The ruler is placed horizontally below the metallic object.

A yellow measuring tape with black markings, used for scale. The tape is marked in inches and centimeters. The visible portion shows markings from approximately 8 to 12 inches. The tape is placed horizontally at the bottom of the frame.

A photograph of a crime scene. A yellow square marker with the number '10' in black is placed on a dark, textured surface, likely asphalt or concrete. To the left of the marker is a small, red, cylindrical object, possibly a spent shell casing. The ground is covered with some dry leaves and debris. A wooden beam or railing is visible in the lower right corner.
